

FAST TRAIN WRECKED, 3 ARE KILLED

Engineer, Fireman and Unidentified Hobo Die as Engine Leaves Rails
SABOTAGE IS SEEN

Evidence Shows Wreck
Was Not Accident

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 21.—An engineer, a fireman and an unidentified hobo were killed early today when a fast mail and passenger train of the Norfolk and Western railroad was derailed at Haverhill, 20 miles east of here.

The victims were Engineer J. H. Myers and Fireman John I. Kemp, both of Portsmouth, and the tramp, who had been riding the "blinds." Evidence was found to indicate the wreck might have been the result of a sabotage plot, railroad officials stated.

LEAVES, RAILS
J. H. VanHermit of Sardinia, mail clerk, and E. A. Cole of Rome, Va., express messenger, were slightly hurt.

Leaving the rails, the locomotive turned over two express cars.

LOCAL ANGLE SEEN
A local angle was inserted into the Norfolk and Western train wreck today when it was learned that J. K. Colley of Portsmouth, father of Mrs. Robert Armstrong, this city, is an engineer on "The Pocahontas," the unfortunate train and if the wreck had occurred Thursday night instead of Wednesday night Mr. Colley would have been on it.

Passenger in four sleepers on the train, however, were not even awakened.

A tempered switch caused the derailment, it was said. Authorities questioned an 18-year-old youth who was found in a field near the scene of the wreck. He claimed that he was riding on the tender of the train at the time of the accident and was thrown off.

The youth gave his name as James Leland of Chillicothe. Supporting the theory that the derailment was a sabotage attempt, railroad officials said that only two days ago it was discovered that two bolts had been removed from the rails near the point of today's wreck.

E. F. Peters, superintendent of the Scioto division of the railroad, and Elmer Pratt of Portsmouth, a Norfolk and Western detective, intimated their belief that the attempt to wreck the train was undoubtedly the work of experts.

Derailling of the train tore up the tracks and flattened the railroad's telegraph lines for several hundred yards. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene to clear a temporary passage, but the wreckage was not expected to be cleared up thoroughly for several hours.

The derailed train was the "Pocahontas," which left Columbus at 10:10 last night.

LINDBERGH SEEN IN CONNECTICUT

MILFORD, Conn., April 21.—A man believed to be Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and three companions stopped here last night, ate quickly at Fagan's lunch in the center of town, and sped away towards New Haven in an automobile bearing New Jersey markers.

Police said they were not informed whether the incident was connected with the hunt for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Bernard J. Fagan, police commissioner and owner of the restaurant, timed the visit at about 11:30 p. m. With the man believed to be Lindbergh were two who appeared to be business men, and a fourth who looked like a detective. About two dozen townspeople, attracted by a report that Lindbergh was in the party, clustered about the restaurant windows. All were positive of Lindbergh's identity.

INJURIES FATAL

Funeral services were held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the residence in Kingston for Miss Beatrice St. Clair, 19, who died in Chillicothe hospital Wednesday of injuries suffered in an automobile crash last Sunday.

The girl was a native of Allegheny Springs, Va., and is survived by her father, three brothers and five sisters. Interment was to be in Shawsville, Va.

Economic Marvel

Doubtless the heart of many a stroller on the sidewalks of New York has bled for Tony Misiak, whose only apparent means of sustenance was his income from the sale of lead pencils held toward the passerby in a withered hand. However, when recently arrested on a charge of alcoholism, Misiak proved to be a walking bank. Police found $32,917 in his only "turn" pocket. He said he had saved it from the $10 a week he made from sale of pencils.

CLIMAX NEAR IN HONOLULU 'HONOR' CASE

State's Rebuttal Witnesses
to Attack Massie's
Alleged Insanity

WIFE TELLS STORY

Courtroom Cheers As
Woman Destroys Paper

HONOLULU, T. H., April 21.—The swift march of events to a climax in Honolulu's "honor slaying" trial may be halted today as the government sparred for time in its efforts to tear down the defense of insanity erected on behalf of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley informed International News Service that he will seek a formal court order of postponement until tomorrow in order to permit Dr. Paul Bowers, mainland psychiatrist arriving here today, to examine the young naval officer.

With the defense resting its case after the dramatic appearance of Mrs. Thalia Massie on the witness stand, Kelley concentrated on rebuttal testimony aimed to prove that Lieut. Massie was sane when he pulled the trigger that sent a bullet crashing through the heart of Joseph Kahahawai.

Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two naval enlisted men, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord, are on trial accused of killing Kahahawai, who, according to the story Mrs. Massie sobbed out in court, not only led five hoodlums in attacking her but brutally beat her as well.

MASSIE SANE NOW

Defense attorneys have said Lieut. Massie, sane now, was insane when he fired the fatal shot.

Mrs. Massie's testimony came to an unexpectedly emotional climax when she tore into fine threads a document handed her by Kelley, purporting to be a "psychopathic questionnaire" she answered last summer, and hinting at trouble in the Massie home.

Amid the wild applause and confusion that greeted Mrs. Massie's act, the defense rested. "I saw her tear that paper in two, and then into small bits," Darrow said today. "Of course she shouldn't have done it, but nothing in the world could have stopped her."

The cheers from white women spectators at Mrs. Massie's bold act brought a threat from Judge Charles S. Davis to punish with

SEE REFUSAL OF FREEDOM FOR MOONEY

Governor Rolph of California to Announce His Decision Late Today

NEWS IS AWAITED

Many Rumors Rife Concerning Finding

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 21.—Governor James Rolph, Jr.'s, long awaited decision on the pardon application of Tom Mooney was ready today.

With the capitol guarded to prevent any possible radical demonstration, Governor Rolph is marking time until late in the day to reveal his verdict.

A tense atmosphere pervaded the Governor's office as a battery of telegraph operators, stationed at their instruments, awaited the signal to flash the news to the world.

EXPECT REFUSAL
Belief that Mooney's pardon plea would be denied by the Governor was expressed by administration leaders.

Rolph, it was reported, would follow the action of three previous governors—William D. Stephens, Friend W. Richardson and C. C. Young—and refuse to free Mooney of blame in the 1916 Preparedness Day blast in San Francisco which claimed the lives of 10 persons and injured 40 others. However, rumors of a possible commutation of sentence were also circulated. The scene of today's climax of a 15-year international fight to (Continued on Page Eight)

MORE STRIKE RIOTS FEARED

Snipers Shoot at Guard Officer and Newspaper Correspondent
Wednesday.

CADIZ, O., April 21.—Alarm over a threatened new uprising by strikers swept through eastern Ohio today following outbreak of sniping late night when five shots were fired at an Ohio National Guard officer and a newspaper man.

Militia lines were tightened for a new clash with strikers after the sniping was reported at the Somers mine near Adena, with Capt. Kenneth Kerr of Wilmington and William C. Howe, newspaper correspondent as targets.

Fear of further attacks was increased with the discovery of five quarts of nitroglycerine—"enough to blow the town off the map"—at Jewett, a mining camp near here which was rocked yesterday by a mysterious explosion.

Captain Kerr and Howells were motoring from Cadiz to the Somers mine, where more than 100 militiamen are stationed, when the sniping broke out.

From an ambush in a clump of trees on a nearby hill, snipers fired a shot at Howells' car. When Howells leaped from the machine to indicate he was not a miner defying strikers' orders, he was answered with more bullets.

Leaping back into the machine, he drove rapidly to the mine, neither man was injured.

CITY PLAYGROUND NEED IS STRESSED

With less than two months before school is dismissed and the hundreds of school children are let out for summer vacation, it is time to think about proper playground facilities for these children.

During past summers the playgrounds at the different school buildings have been closed to the children. The Board of Education may have just reasons for this policy but there should be no reason for this property being closed when it is most needed.

With the ever increasing traffic problems, the speed that motorists maintain through the city, mothers are bound to have a great worry for the safety of their children during the coming vacation period.

Money for Federal Building
Here May Be Available

COPELAND LEADS

Opposition to Wagner Bill
Being Voiced

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Money for the erection of the new Circleville postoffice may be raised through a bond issue.

With Congress seeking to slash 10 per cent from the treasury and postoffice appropriation bills and Ogden Mills, secretary of treasury, asserting that a slash will hinder the federal building program, Senator Copeland, New York, has come forward with the suggestion that the program be completed by the issuance of bonds.

It is Copeland's idea that the federal building program be one that will benefit future generations and that future generations should pay for it.

"No business concern" he said in the Senate, "would pay out now for future needs."

CITIES FUTURE
He also declared that the present depression and the consequent horror of the taxpayers at the present high tax rates cannot change forever. By having future generations pay for the federal building he said, the government would be providing for expenditures at a time when prosperity will have returned.

The treasury estimates that $95,000 will be necessary for the Circleville postoffice. This Circleville project is one of those listed by Copeland as being within the scope of his plan.

Voters of Pickaway County—

In presenting myself as a candidate for Recorder-I was aware that I would be financially unable to conduct a typical campaign. It costs money and quite a lot of it to drive over all or most of Pickaway County calling on the voters; and I knew that I should be unable to do that, much as I should like to. A pleasant smile and a warm handshake are very pleasant things to have, especially if they are a natural part of the individual rather than an artificial veneer for special occasions. But it seems to me that these things do not make a candidate any more capable of filling an office nor any more deserving of that office.

It has always been my opinion that if the voters could be personally acquainted with each candidate, it would be an easy matter to decide how to cast their ballots. So my purpose in addressing this message to you, is to give you some information about myself and to request your consideration of my candidacy.

I am thirty-three years old, a native of Harrison Township, a graduate of Jackson Township High School, a veteran of the World War, a former teacher in the schools of Jackson and Walnut Townships, and have had several years of business experience. At present I am secretary and treasurer of the Midwest Farm Equipment Company of Circleville, Pickaway county's newest manufacturing industry.

I would appreciate your thorough investigation of me and my qualifications, before you decide which way you are going to vote in this contest.

INTENSIFY YOUR ACTIVITIES IS PLEA TO OHIO LEGIONNAIRES

CLEVELAND, April 21— "Intensify your activities; find jobs!" That is the word that has been sent out to Ohio's 472 American Legion posts by C. E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad, who is directing this state's participation in the nation-wide "War Against Depression," which was launched recently by the Legion. The cooperation of the Legion Auxiliary, the Association of National Advertisers and the American Federation of Labor likewise being sought in the Legion's battle for jobs for the unemployed.

Stage Honeymoon

Something new in the way of honeymoons has been evolved by Dorothy MacKall, blond movie star, and her husband, Neil Miller, who are spending the joyous post-bridal period making personal stage appearances. The happy couple is shown arriving at Washington, D. C., to fulfill an engagement in the capital.

Although the main purpose of the campaign is to find work for the jobless, the Legion and the cooperating groups will endeavor to promote to a better public state of mind as an offset to hoarding and as a stimulus to the normal spending to substantial business improvement.

A message asking the united support of all legionnaires has been sent out to all state officers, county councils and post commanders, by Denney. It follows: "With the unified support of the Legion, other affiliated organizations and interested citizens in the various communities, this effort can and will be of tremendous help in relieving unemployment. The Ohio state headquarters is anxious to mobilize behind the movement, at the earliest possible moment, the manpower of all of the posts throughout the state. To be of effective assistance we would like to hear from all posts regarding the particular activities and plans for increasing employment now underway and results accomplished. This will enable us to pass along information and practical suggestion that will be helpful to all forces engaged in the work."

DRAFTED TO AID
F. F. Stafford, Cleveland businessman, is assisting Denney as state executive director of the campaign. Like Denney, Stafford was drafted for the movement by the national and state headquarters of the American Legion. A million men restored to jobs before next winter is the national objective of the campaign. Besides enlisting the facilities and manpower of all of the Legion posts in the effort to fulfill Ohio's quota, the cooperation of various other organizations in the state will be invited. Where activities already have been started under auspices other than the Legion, the local Legion posts will be asked to lend full support. The total membership of the Legion in Ohio is approximately 50,000.

PICKAWAY SCHOOLS

Our operetta last night was a big success. The auditorium was crowded, and the people were unanimous in declaring that the entertainment was unusually good. The training for the boys and girls in this production was more valuable than that in most similar productions.

Our track team will contest with Circleville and New Holland teams in a triangular meet on the C. H. S. field Friday at 3 p. m.

The Hilo Hawaiians of Circleville brought us a delightful half hour of Hawaiian entertainment for our assembly program Monday morning. We enjoyed it very much and recommended them to any gathering desiring an entertainment of this kind.

We had a pleasant day at Jackson Township School Saturday where we met for the county spelling contest. We did not have as many winners as Salt Creek and New Holland but we did very well.

Rosemary Boggs and Eleanor Dreisbach tied for third in the 7-8 written spelling, and we had pupils in the final elimination contest in all groups except the operetta and did not devote any time to spelling.

Cora Kerns, one of Salt Creek's winners, was for several years a pupil in our school and she left us during this school term.

WASHINGTON-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The Parent-Teacher Association held its second meeting in the school house auditorium last Wednesday evening. There was a nice crowd and the address given by Mrs. Hamilton State president, was well received. The officers elected at the first meeting are to be retained for the next school year.

The organization is well organized now and expect to rendered a real service next year. Our baseball boys played baseball at Muhlberg last Friday. They met with defeat with a score of only 3-1. A return game will be played on our own diamond this Friday afternoon.

The Washington Township high school will be represented in the Ohio Teachers Poetry speaking contest in Columbus Friday afternoon. Our contestants are Olive Hartley, Freshman and Paul Elliott and John Paul Graffis, seniors. Mrs. Gerner will accompany them to Columbus.

The Seniors have started Practices on their play which will be given May 13th.

Paul Elliott and Clyde Leist were absent from school Monday to make a trip to Columbus. We are very proud of the showing made by our pupils in the county spelling contest. Mary Clark won 1st in 7 and 8th grade oral and Charles McWhorter won third in the same test.

Grace Clark was 4th in written from grades 5 and 6th and Harold Marshall was fourth in oral for the same grades. We were sixth place in high school so all in all our record was not so bad. Next year it will be better.

The junior play "Jimmy Hold that Line" was well received by the rather small audience which came out Friday night. The players were very good in their respective parts. Oakley Leist as "Caesar" a negro comedian kept the crowd in laughing mood. All of his efforts to bring forth laughs struck center. Each character was well portrayed from the point of view that all actors were amateurs for some it was their first attempt in a speaking play. The juniors cleared a nice sum on the play which will be used to defray the expense of the Junior-Senior reception.

Miss DeLong reported the following pupils in 3 and 4th grades have a perfect attendance so far this year. Paul Matz, Philip Reichelderfer, Esther Mace, Fern Richards, Ned Kraft, Marvin Marshall, Burl Wiggins.

The honor roll in the third and fourth grades for the last six weeks include:

The following high school pupils have their names on the honor roll: Olive Hartley, Martha David Adams, Earl Devo, and Clyde Leist.

Your Telephone Can Help You Make Money

A great merchant once explained the secret of making money by saying "Buy at the lowest price—and sell at the highest price." Sounds easy, doesn't it—but it isn't. Especially if you have to trapse about to find out what prices actually are.

Here's where the telephone can help you—whether you buy or sell. Prices move up and down pretty fast these days but your telephone works faster -- to your advantage.

To get the "best deal"—use your telephone. If you haven't a telephone, by all means have one installed at once. You will find it profitable.

Boosting Letter Postage
PRIOR to 1916 the post office department had a small but regular deficit from year to year.
This deficit dated back to the middle of the last century, when rapid expansion of the postal service cost the government as much as twice its postal receipts. In 1860, receipts were about $8,000,000 and expenditures were $19,000,000.
These figures appear insignificant when compared with an estimated deficit of $150,000,000 for this year.
While the public is accustomed to regard the postal deficit without alarm and will so regard the prospective shortage, which is in excess of the 1931 deficit, the postoffice department views it with misgivings and considers ways and means of wiping it out.

Contributing to the disparity between the cost and the prices of all services are the costly air-mail service, the franking privilege of the congressmen and expansion of the rural mail service. These losses, however, are not troubling the department. It finds that first-class mail rates are too low to place the servant on a self-supporting basis, and proposes a basic rate of three cents per ounce instead of the present two cents.
What the public reaction to the addition of a cent to the cost of mailing its personal letters would be cannot be foreseen. There was no protest against the higher war rates but a two-cent rate for postcards nearly abolished that medium of communication.
It has always been the policy of the postoffice department to maintain the rates at a point where they would encourage universal communication. Has it taken that into consideration in advocating a higher rate now?

Twin Dollars
MILLIONS of Americans living near the Canadian border and daily engaging in business with their neighbors to the north welcome the recent improvement in the dominion currency in terms of that of the United States. Commerce between the two countries is slowly and inconspicuously increasing. The Canadian dollar's value falls below that of Uncle Sam's dollar.
Canadian money circulating in the United States becomes at such times almost as unpopular as lead nickles.
There really is no good reason why the ratio between the two currencies should change simply because England goes off the gold standard. Canadian currency is tied in with the American more than with the British system.
Shortly after the dominion was created in 1867, it adopted, and not without good reason, a currency system identical in value with that of the United States. The reason for this parallel, if not unity, in currency was the fact that the bulk of Canada's trade was with the United States, and it was, therefore, to the advantage of both nations that their money be uniform in value.

The dominion dollar is again coming up to par because the Dominion stands financially on its own feet and is perfectly sound.
Canada is potentially rich, meets its obligations when they become due and is in the control of a conservative government. There is probably no more reason for the dominion dollar to drop in value at this time than there is to sell the American dollar short.

Omen
BACK in the old days when there was enough business to go around and it was as hard to avoid work as it is for a child to avoid the measles it was said that the steel industry was a barometer of business conditions. Business rose and fell with the ups and downs of steel production.
There was nothing supernatural about this, for every industry uses steel and iron in some shape or form in its buildings and machinery. So there can not be great industrial activity without the steel industry rearing its head.
For this reason reports of the awakening of the great steel and iron district in Eastern Ohio are encouraging. These mills have orders or they would not be firing their furnaces and hearths, and when orders come business is to be found.
Perhaps it is a revival of building construction. Or a flood of orders pouring into Detroit. And it may be the stirrings of new life in the railroads. Something has applied the stimulant.
The nation hopes these are the beginnings of a return to normal conditions. But even if the condition is merely local and temporary it will bring relief in the way of wages for thousands of families and in the way of business for several mills.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER" by TOM GILL

CHAPTER LIV
"Why did you lead them to this trap, Manuel?"
"Señor, we were thirsty, and two of us were sick. And, as you know, only in this cañon is good, cold water and grass for the horses. And we did not think—"
"I know, it does not matter. And yet for a cold drink of water the history of the border must be changed. For a moment's folly you find yourself faced with a cañon full of cavalry. But let that go. I bring you good word. You are free men again. Within half an hour the American cavalry moves down the trail, leaving you free."
Manuel crossed himself. "Free!
But, Señor, it is a miracle. He laughed and looked about him.
"None but El Coyote could do that,
eh, my children?"
Bob stilled the shout of rejoicing with an upraised hand. "You are right, Manuel. None could have done it but El Coyote, yet even for El Coyote it was a price."
The long, close fellowship between those two men made Manuel guess the answer. His smile of exultation died and in a tremulous whisper he asked, "You gave yourself up for us?"
"What else? I offered El Coyote in exchange for his band. There was no other way. It was a good trade.
Without you I could have done little, for you are the best of those who have come to me. It was better
so. And yet—his clenched hand tightened on the saddle-horn—"we were so near victory."
For a time in the gloom of that granite recess he looked at them.
Fearless, impulsive, doglike in their loyalty. Each of them he had known —the history and the hopes of each.
They had faced death together, they had kept back the power of Morales.
Yes, it had been a good game, and a little glow of pride and of affection for these strangely assorted men showed now in Don Bob's troubled eyes.
They stood silent, helpless before the disaster that had overtaken their leader. Unclassy they looked at one another, like dumb animals in pain.
He had been their protector. He had led them in revolt. He had taught them to hope, and now he was going away to face—none dared even guess.
Manuel's voice trembled. "Must it be this, amigo? Is it not better to fight our way out? Come, stay with us and together when darkness comes we will fight our way to freedom again. Do not let them take you. Without you what are we but helpless children. Do not go from us, you who have been our father."
But Don Bob shook his head and smiled. Then for the last time he spoke. "We have never pulled trigger against the soldiers of either your country or mine. To do that would have meant defeat to the cause. But we going does not mean defeat. Follow me. I leave you to carry on. You are the hope of the borderland. Be men and no one can make you slaves. Stand for the liberty that all men make their hearts and you will never need me or anyone else."

No Need to Worry About "Crick" in the Back at 50

Creaking Joints and Other Signs of Senescent Arthritis Result from Wear and Tear on Body Tissues and Are Not Dangerous, but Suggest Care of Diet, Hygiene.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A LETTER I received quite recently, said this:
"I am a man fifty years of age and fear that the stiffness I have in my spine is a sign of approaching old age. My real fear, too, is that the slight trouble I have now may grow worse and make me a cripple. Can you reassure me?"
There is little need to worry over these symptoms. The doctors give the trouble described by this man a big name, but really it is bigger than the ailment deserves.
It is called "senescent arthritis." As the name indicates, it is regarded as one of the signs of advancing age. But of course a man of fifty is not old by any means, and I am glad to say he need not worry over his trouble.
It is not at all uncommon for the joints of the body to show the effects of the wear and tear of life. In view of the construction of the body, it is really amazing that we do not more frequently discover the presence of many defective materials here and there. The strain caused by the many demands upon our tissues is sure to bring to light a weakening somewhere.
It is not uncommon to find a person well along in life who has what he calls a "crick" in his neck or in his knees. There is a creaking sound on movement of the joint and a sensation of grating.
It has been well said that "misery loves company." Anyhow, it is reassuring to know that the symptom described is very, very common. Its victim has much company. Let me quote this from a recent writer on the subject:
"In the joints of the lower spine of 60 to 70 per cent of all persons aged more than 50 years, slight arthritic changes can be detected by means of the X-ray, although the vast majority of these people are not in the least aware of their condition."
Let me emphasize that the symptom is not important. One may be unduly sensitive to it, but it is encouraging to know there is nothing about it to worry over. There need be no fear that the trouble will spread, or that it will result in serious crippling.
The symptoms should serve as a warning that good living is important. The benefits of hygienic living and proper eating should not be neglected.
Some of the effects of age may be distressing to our minds, but most of them can be accepted philosophically because they are unimportant in themselves. We may not be able to live to the century, but by proper care of our bodies we can be pretty comfortable to the end.

Dr. Copeland

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. R. M. Q.—What would cause the eyes to turn up—have a spell about once a week, lasting until I go to sleep? Have had medical attention without relief. It is a terrible feeling and I cannot see while the spell lasts.
A.—This may be due to a nervous condition. Have your eyes thoroughly examined by an eye specialist so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined. It would be impossible to make a more definite suggestion without examining your eyes.
W. J. L. Q.—How much should a girl 5 ft. 2 inches tall weigh, also a girl 5 ft. tall?
A.—Your correct weight depends on your age as well as your height.
2—Avoid the use of soap if the skin is dry.
S. G. H. Q.—What causes excessive perspiration under arms?
A.—This is due to nerve stimulation. You should have treatment for the nervousness. For full particulars send self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.
All—They should weigh respectively 125, 112 and 145 pounds. This would be about average for their respective ages and heights as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE GRAND
Mary Carr, whose portrayal of the gullible little mother in the silent version of "Over the Hill," will long be remembered, has another interesting role at the Grand Theatre. In Tim McCoy's new western drama for Columbia, "The Fighting Marshal," Mrs. Carr is one of an expert cast of favorites.
Since her memorable success in "Over the Hill," the veteran actress has maintained her reputation as one of the screen's foremost interpreters of mother roles. Her recent productions have included "Kept Husbands," with Dorothy Mackall, and "Honeymoon Lane," with Eddie Dowling.
Dorothy Gulliver, Matthew Betz, Pat O'Malley and other popular players are in the cast of the new McCoy thriller, which was directed by D. Ross Lederman.
AT THE CLIFTONA
Transition in character is the only requisite which Miriam Hopkins places upon a part which she plays.
If the character she portrays does something interesting instead of just being present at events, she is satisfied no matter how small it is.
In her latest picture "Dancers in the Dark," which is the Cliftona theatre's feature for two days beginning today, Miss Hopkins progresses from a sophisticated, wise-cracking, loose-minded dance hall hostess to a contemplative, determined, self-respecting woman, hopeful of meriting the affection of the man she loves.
"Any character which shows a definite change is interesting," Miriam explains.
To date, all of Miss Hopkins' parts have met this requirement.
Her role in "Fast and Loose" came nearest to being a straight part. In "The Smiling Lieutenant," "24 Hours" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" she really has been a stellar character actress.
However, she points out to explain her point, that in "Fast and Loose" she was a wild, selfish, spoiled girl who later was jarred into seeing the errors of her ways. In "The Smiling Lieutenant," she turned from a shy, unattractive princess into a lively, desirable one. In "24 Hours," her transition was from the gay songbird of a night club into a troubled, frightened girl of drama. The same, in part, holds true of her part as Ivy in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," where he is an alluring girl who nearly causes Jekyll to lose his head, and later finds herself bedraggled, fearful and tragic as the victim of Hyde's cruelty.

The Daily Horoscope

Thursday, April 21, 1932

The lawless and criminal element looms up today. All the indications point to extra activity among bootleggers, gangsters and their henchmen. Corruption walks abroad and it behooves right thinking people to be on the alert to guard their interests.
A hard day for doctors, lawyers, the clergy and other professional workers. Lawmakers and those who administer the law may meet heavy obstacles. Ordinary folks had better avoid extremes and excesses in any form. This is a day when it is too easy to collect the wages of sin.
People born the last week of February or June, should take advantage of opportunities to push established business. Not a time for new ventures, however.
Drugs, medicines and narcotics may be in big demand. Those whose work is connected with strong chemicals should use caution. The afternoon is an unfavorable period for literary workers, students and teachers. Public speakers are apt to attract much criticism. Not a time for making agreements or signing contracts. Important interviews should be put off another day.
Children whose birth falls on this date are usually proud and somewhat exclusive. They desire the best there is and do not care for anything of an inferior quality, being reserved and quiet in disposition, yet at times full of life and high spirits when these little ones become interested in any thing they go the limit. They do not lack in concentration as most children do having strong will power and character.
The women adults make fine nurses and cooks while the men often become successful physicians, farmers and bookkeepers. Among famous persons whose birthday is celebrated on this date we find Charlotte Bonte, author, 1816; Friedrich Wilhelm August Froebel, German philosopher, 1872; Fred. Gunther, composer, 1818. Adoption of the method is expected to prove a boon to grape growers.

COSHOCTON-CO CITIZENS ASK LOWER TAXES; LEAGUE FORMED

COSHOCTON, April 21.—Not its drive to "use the ax" on the state and bit for relief through county school system, particularly in their own taken the matter, the county board of education, as for lower taxes, and in a fight well as the county health board, particularly the county nurse; and concentrated in elimination of expenditures by regularly elected county officials. The league's efforts are now being directed in a county-wide appeal to county officials to cut down on deputy clerk hire; and in a drive for more efficient and less expensive county highway improvement and maintenance. The state tax league, vice president, M. A. McConnell, the county's largest farm operator; secretary, Charles E. Lorenz, Coshocton wool and produce merchant.

In the beginning the assaults of the league officials and their supporters were directed at not only regularly-elected county officials but also the county school administration and country health commission. The campaign, however, soon crystallized into a drive to compel the county commissioners to withhold their annual appropriation toward the salary of County Agricultural Extension Agent G. C. Musgrove. The commissioners' length made the "reduction," and County Agent Musgrove, on "leave of absence" at Ohio State University, was replaced by acting County Agent Carl Wetherall of Morgan county, who agreed to do the work for the annual state education allowance of $1,600 plus an appropriation of $600 from the Coshocton County Farm Bureau. The tax league then diminished

Quarrel Between Young Lovers Ends in Suicide

Washington. — "Lacy: Good-by, sweetheart. I am going to join my mother. You can get another boy friend, now, who has a car, money and can dance, Elmer."

This note, telling how a quarrel between youthful sweethearts ended in tragedy, was left on the bureau in the room of twenty-year-old Elmer Tippeus, in the 240 block Fourteenth place N. E. It was written just before the youth ended his life by firing a .22-caliber rifle bullet through his head.

The Lucy of the farewell note found the boy's body.

Miss Lucy Tippeus, sixteen, of the first block Todd place N. E., a friend of his family, came to the home to see Elmer's sister. The sister was not at home.

The girl told the police she had quarreled with young Tippeus earlier in the day. A casualty hospital interne who examined his body said the shot probably killed him instantly. Tippeus was unemployed and lived with his brother-in-law.

Veterans Pass Rookie Hitters

NEW YORK, April 21.—With Bill Terry hitting four home runs in two days and giving Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Lou Gehrig a merry race for home run honors, veterans are crowding the rookies out of the major league spotlight in the quest of batting laurels.

At this time it is not unusual for a flock of first-year men to be batting over .300 and even in the .400 class. No such situation exists this year. Out of sixteen rookies who have been playing all or most of the time, only two are hitting better than .300. They are Bill Lawrence, Detroit outfielder from Seattle, with a mark of .316, and Carey Selph, Houston graduate who is batting .314 for the Chicago White Sox.

Averages of other freshmen, include yesterday's games, together with their 1932 and 1931 affiliations, are: Harry Davis, Detroit (Toronto), .290; Joe Morrissey, Cincinnati (St. Paul), .276; Harold Anderson, White Sox (St. Paul), .250; Stanley Mack, Cubs (Oakland), .241; Len Kneekne, Giants (Indianapolis), .217; Bill Knothe, Braves (Seattle), .217; Vince Barton, Cubs (Los Angeles), .214; Mickey Heath, Cincinnati (Hollywood), .200; Al Choen, Brooklyn (Hartford), .200; George Davis, Phillies (St. Paul), .194; Bill Herman, Cubs (Louisville), .161; Frank Crosetti, Yankees (San Francisco).

PERRY-TWP. SCHOOL NOTES

The County Spelling Match is over. While we did not win any prizes we still think we have some good spellers. We know that many of our pupils are better spellers than they would have been had there been no spelling match. Our pupils did very well as long as our speller was used but when they began to pronounce from Hunt's Progressive Speller, the boys and girls from Perry began to lose out. We had not made an intensive study of the Hunt book.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

TO BE SUCCESS
 Rodgers and tickets printed by the Circleville Publishing Co. for the Junior Class play, "Man or Money," a three-act comedy to be presented at the high school April 24 and 25, were distributed Wednesday. The former were given to the business men by John Moore, Lincoln Mader, John Styers and John Maxey while the tickets were handed to many students for sale.

William Heggie, a newcomer with a future, plays the part of Jonathan Willoughby, who has made a success of life. He has amassed a fortune as a construction engineer. Jonathan Willoughby is the dominant type, and is schooled to meet and repay any type of legitimate competition in business.

Benton Van Horn, a friend of Willoughby's has inherited most of his money. By skillful investing he has enlarged his fortune. Van Horn is not a leader but depends upon the counsel of his wife. He is a decided peace-at-any-price man. Robert Wilson plays this part.

There is a noticeable distinction between Henrietta Willoughby and Jennie Van Horn. Mrs. Willoughby relies mostly on her husband's judgment. Her chief concern is to lavish all the attention and money possible on her daughter, Hope. She is colorless in both personality and appearance.

Helen Westenhaver is in reality a direct contrast to the girl who plays Mrs. Van Horn, as she is the petite type. This is her first appearance on the stage.

Jennie Van Horn tries to make up for the lack of pugnacity in her husband. She is a good woman, refined, and cultured. Ellen Bennett plays the role of Jennie with dash and snap.

measure, is leading the fight. Though admitting that many men in each locality affected would be given work by the bill, Senator Dickinson declared today that he would oppose it, or any measure like it, until the country is in a better condition financially. Stirring sentiment in the house, Representative Charles Millard, New York, asserted that the Wagner bill had no chance of passage, and would only "muddy the waters" so that no public building funds could be voted until next year.

The Wagner bill, introduced several weeks ago, grew out of the New York senator's plan for securing immediate construction of all projected government buildings in New York, when the plan was extended in scope at the request of senators from other states. More recently Wagner introduced an amendment to the treasury and postoffice appropriations bill, designed to take care of the New York projects alone. Other senators have followed this example. Barring passage of the original Wagner measure, Circleville's best chance for action on its project this year lies in stirring its representatives and senators to back a special bill or amendment.

CAUSES WRANGLING
 Opposition to the Wagner bill by the budget bureau has caused considerable wrangling in the senate appropriations committee, and several closed hearings have been held. Although the bill is not actively supported by the treasury, the department is known to approve.

SEE REFUSAL

clear Mooney and his co-defendant, Warren K. Billings, was in Governor Rolph's private office. Planking the Governor at his desk were Matt I. Sullivan, former chief justice of the California supreme court, and a group of legal advisors. Facing them was an audience of newspapermen, telegraph instruments at their elbows.

HELD IN DESK
 This stage setting awaited the dramatic moment when the Governor would unlock his desk, and produce two sets of typewritten papers.

One of these—three sheets containing a thousand words—will be Governor Rolph's eagerly awaited decision.

The other set, a more voluminous file of 130 pages carrying 25,000 words, covers a legal review of the famous case, as prepared by Judge Sullivan.

The decision will be one of three possibilities—outright pardon, denial of pardon, or commutation of sentence.

While the capital was convinced the Mooney's pardon plea is lost, gossip persisted that Governor Rolph may order a commutation of sentence to the time served as a compromise. A commutation, however, would not restore citizenship to Mooney, nor would it wipe out the legal presumption of guilt.

Still another rumor says that Rolph will grant a commutation with promise of a full pardon at a future date if Mooney conducts himself in an exemplary manner on "the outside."
